

Bowmans - POPIA

As responsible parties, employers are required to comply with the provisions of the Protection of Personal Information Act, 2013 (POPIA). Bowmans' Data Protection Group, a multi-disciplinary team of experienced lawyers (including those from our Employment & Benefits Practice), assists with all data protection issues, compliance and incident response initiatives.

We can assist employers with their POPIA compliance by, among other things, advising on the appointment and registration of information officers and deputy information officers, preparing necessary documents, including compliance frameworks and impact assessments, agreements and outlines of PAIA manuals, conducting training and awareness sessions for employees and advising on various processing activities. For your free access to our Bowmans POPIA infographic, click here.